

MNC DEVELOPMENT

INTERIOR DESIGN

Designers craft spaces that anticipate clients' needs and appeal to their emotions while pulling from a broad set of skills and technical knowledge. Interior designers are expected to have working knowledge of:

- Textiles, materials, color, space planning, sustainability, and more
- Software applications (i.e. CAD etc.)
- Structural requirements, health and safety issues, and building codes

Our interior design practice works with contractors, architects, engineers, craftsmen, furniture dealers, business and home owners. Further, MNC Development has expertise in many disciplines including, but limited to: architecture; graphic design; decorative arts; textile, furniture, and lighting design.

MNC Development has evolved from being just a full service real estate firm in 2002 to now include a leading multi-disciplinary boutique interior design practice. We believe the attention to detail given to our private residential/commercial clients is essential to our success and is a characteristic the firm has maintained through its evolution. MNC Development does not believe in generic solutions, nor do we believe in a conventional or standardized way of thinking. We believe that each design discipline should work together under a unified creative direction. This way, the design outcome generated by each discipline naturally relates and does not require adaption to coexist. Thus, the team's multi-disciplinary experience brings a fresh perspective to each project and allows us to examine every design with an unbiased eye. When our clients are faced with challenging situations, we provide them with strategic recommendations to address problems and apply solutions.

We pride ourselves on developing excellent working relationships with our clients, founded on strong communication and a dynamic, collaborative spirit. We help clients clarify their goals and formulate meaningful, measurable objectives. We also recognize that projects are not static, but rather, evolve over time. We pride ourselves on working closely with our clients throughout the entire process and evolving with our clients throughout the various phases of each project.